DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES ASSISTANCE AND BILL OF RIGHTS ACT (D.D. ACT)

Background

The Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (DD Act) is the fundamental law supporting and enhancing the lives of people with developmental disabilities and their families. For over 30 years, the DD Act has enjoyed strong bipartisan support. It was last authorized in 2000, and is therefore long overdue for reauthorization.

Title I of the DD Act focuses on the estimated 5.4 million children and adults in the United States and territories who have developmental disabilities. The Act provides federal financial assistance to states and public and nonprofit agencies to support community-based delivery of services to persons with developmental disabilities to create and enhance opportunities for independence, productivity, and self-determination.

The DD Act consists of four programs that create an intersecting network. Grant funds support initiatives in civil rights protections, education and early intervention, child care, health, employment, housing, transportation, recreation, family support, and other services. The DD Act components are:

State Councils on Developmental Disabilities (DD Councils)

Councils on Developmental Disabilities are located in every State and Territory and include volunteers who are appointed by Governors. More than 60% of these volunteers must be people with developmental disabilities or family members. Councils are charged by Federal law to identify the most pressing needs of people with developmental disabilities in their State or Territory and to develop innovative and cost effective ways to address those needs in a manner that upholds the dignity and value of people with developmental disabilities. Councils work to promote the independence and productivity of people with developmental disabilities and promote systems change that will eliminate obvious inequities in areas such as employment, education, and access to healthcare.

Protection and Advocacy (P&A) systems

Under the Protection and Advocacy for Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PADD) program, P&As are required to pursue legal, administrative, and other appropriate remedies under all applicable federal and state laws to protect and advocate for the rights of individuals with developmental disabilities. Collectively, the P&A network is the largest provider of legally based advocacy services to people with disabilities in the United States. The federally mandated P&As serve individuals with a wide range of disabilities by guarding against abuse; advocating for basic rights; and ensuring accountability in health care, education, employment, housing, transportation, and within the juvenile and criminal justice systems

University Centers for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDDs)

The DD Act authorizes core funds to 67 UCEDDs, at least one in every state and territory, that are components of a university system or are public or not-for-profit entities associated with universities. UCEDDs provide interdisciplinary training to students and professionals, engage in cutting-edge research, provide technical assistance, and direct services and supports to people with disabilities of all ages and their families. UCEDDs share information and research findings.

Projects of National Significance (PNS)

PNS is a discretionary program that focuses on emerging areas of concern. This program supports local implementation of practical solutions and provides results and information for possible national replication. PNS also supports technical assistance; research regarding emerging disability issues; conferences and special meetings; and the development of Federal and state policy. Additionally, funding is provided for states to create or expand statewide systems change.

Family Support Programs

Title II of the DD Act authorizes the Family Support Program to promote and strengthen the implementation of comprehensive State systems for in-home supports for families caring for individuals with disabilities. Family support services are effective in reducing the costs associated with life-long disability, and in preventing the expensive of out-of-home placement. However, this Title needs its own line item funding ($15M.)

Action Taken by Congress and the Administration

No bills have been introduced to reauthorize the DD Act to date. The Administration recommended flat funding in FY 2010 and again for FY 2011 for DD Act programs (the FY 2010 Omnibus Appropriations Act passed by Congress and signed by the President in December, 2009 included modest increases in funding for DD Act programs)

Recommendations

1. Congress should provide a significant increase in appropriations over FY 2010 levels for DD Act programs so that these programs can continue to respond to the needs of people with disabilities. With state budget cuts and inflation, these programs struggle to meet the demands of the growing population of people with developmental disabilities who experience multiple barriers to get and keep jobs, an education, and appropriate community based supports and services.
2. Congress should work toward timely reauthorization of the DD Act that:
 - Increases the funding authorization levels for the programs under the Act to expand the capacity of the DD Network and Family Support
 - Supports a separate title and funding authorization level (above and beyond funding for existing DD Act Programs) for self-advocate-directed Training and Information Centers.
 - Reauthorizing Title III – Preparation of Direct Support Professional Workforce to provide grants to states for personnel preparation, model demonstrations and systems change projects to improve the recruitment, training, support and retention of a qualified direct service professional workforce in each state.
